FOUNDER OF RADIANS.NET, ENTREPRENEUR

Dear Customer! Our family-owned company heartily welcomes you and wishes you all the success in your business.

You probably know small companies have more advantages over bigger ones, among which is flexibility allowing us to meet and even exceed client expectations. We provide Russian translations and language-related services focusing on the most popular areas such as foreign trade, international communications, localization, and working in a team capable of implementing very large translation projects under tight deadlines.

"I am more than ever convinced that whatever intricate technologies are employed in translation the main success factor is a valuable contribution made by talented and experienced translators."

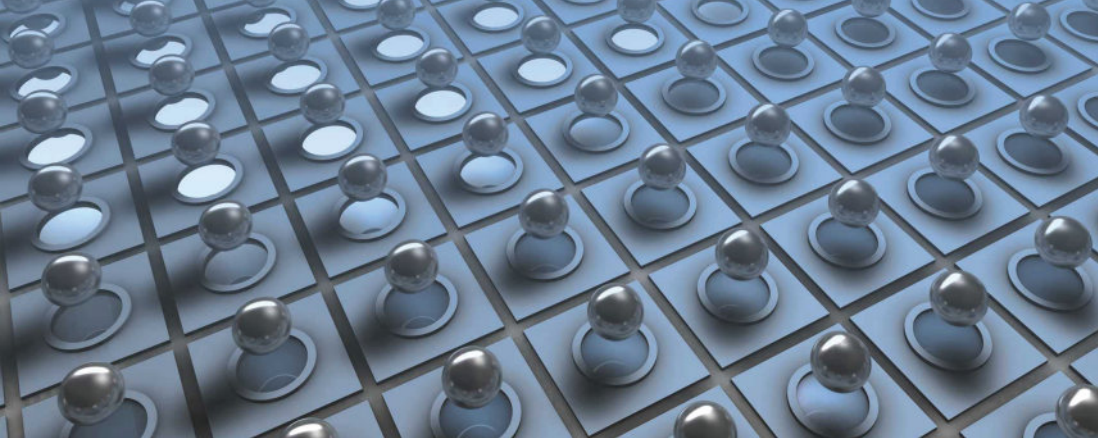

After launching our website in 2002 we were inspired to serve our customers around the world helping them expand their market presence, localise website contents, promote products and brands, communicate with business partners. Our Translation Management System allows our customers to receive ready materials strictly in time, check their project statuses and get related reports. Besides, our price level is typical for the SME sector so you can take advantage of the same professional services as those of large companies.
